NO MERRY, JOYOUS NEW YEAR BELLS.

The Old Year in Chicago Was Allowed to Pass Silently Away.

The New Year Permitted to Come With No Shriek of Horn or Whistle.

The Appalling Calamity in Iroquois Theater Cast the City Into the Deepest Grief.

The Only Throngs to Be Found New Year's Eve Were Around the Different Morgues.

For the Second Time the Western Metropolis Has Been Sorely Stricken to the Heart.

Not Only Have Hundreds of Her People Met Death in a Horrible Manner, But Many Strangers Within Her Gates.

Chicago, Jan. 1.-For the first time since Chicago has possessed bells to peal, whistles to shriek and horns to blow, the old year was allowed to silently take its place in history and the new year permitted to come with no evidence of joy at its birth.

In an official proclamation issued Thursday afternoon by Mayor Carter H. Harrison he made the suggestion that the usual New Year's eve celebration be for this time omitted. The idea found a ready response in the hearts of the people and the mayor's the unexpressed thought that had filled them all.

The appalling calamity of Wednesday in the iroquois theater has cast mined to get out if I had to make all ing from the bodies of the little ones. Chicago into the deepest grief and gloom, and for the time being at least seems to have chilled and deadened all the ordinary ambitions of life. Business Friday was performed with the sole view to actual necessity and even that much was carried out in a perfunctory manner.

An Absence of Merry Makers.

Ordinarily on New Year's eve the streets of the city are filled with merry makers, but Thursday night the only throngs to be found were those around the morgues; ordinarily numbers of fashionable restaurants in the heart of the city are filled with lighthearted revelers, who toast the year that passes and hail the year that comes. Thursday night these places were comparatively deserted, and some of them closed entirely with doors locked and curtains drawn. Usually among these gay people are found many members of the theatrical profession. Thursday night not a single one of them was in evidence.

For the second time in her life the city of Chicago has been stricken to the heart. Not only have many of her sons and daughters met death in a variety of horrible and torturing form, but the blow has fallen almost as heavily upon the strangers within her gates. There is hardly a village or town within a radius of 100 miles of Chicago whose people are not directly or indirectly interested in the piles of dead or in the injured which fill the hospitals, or in the fate of those who seem to have passed from human knowledge in the fact that it is believed that they were in the ill-fated structure and of whom no word has since been heard.

NUMBER OF CASUALTIES.

Including the Missing It Is Approximately Estimated at 1,000.

The list of dead continues, as it was given Wednesday night in the neighborhood of 560. It is generally accepted at this time that the most accurate estimate is 564. This number will be increased somewhat, as there are people in the hospitals who can not survive for any length of time. It is believed, however, that the total number of dead will not in any event exceed 575. Including the missing, it is estimated that the total number of casualties is at the present time approximately 1,000. There are among the missing the names of many who are at their homes and of some who were not at the theater at all. In the first excitement following the calamity these people were reported by their relatives as among the missing and numbers of them have since returned to their homes and no report of this fact has been made to police headquarters. When the names of the dead who are still to be identified have been subtracted from the list of the missing It is probable that the extent of the catastrophe will be fully revealed.

At 2:30 Friday morning 509 persons had been identified among the dead, and there were still 50 or 55 bodies which had not been recognized, the injuries of 171 persons had received attention and 337 were still reported missing.

The Cause of the Calamity. There was animated discussion Thursday among firemen, employes of the theater and architects as to the cause of the fire. Accounts differed Thursday as widely as they varied Wednesday night. The theatrical people are practically a unit in declaring that the fire started with an explosion, and in this they are flatly contradicted by scores of people in the audience, who declare that they saw the fire creeping along the edge of the curtain for several minutes before the explosion took place. These statements are substantiated by the stories of a number of people who left their seats after seeing the blaze and were well on their way to the street when overtaken by the frightened rush of those they had left behind them.

DOOR WAS LOCKED.

The First One to Escape Went Through a Glass Partition.

Miss Anna Woodward, a lady who occupied a seat in the second balcony, gave strong evidence Thursday on this point. She said:

"I was in the second balcony and plainly saw the fire. I am a large woman, weighing close to 180 pounds, and I made up my mind that if there was going to be a panic, it would be wise for me to beat it to the street. I left my seat in the balcony, went down the stairs to the first balcony and from there started to pass out through the very door in which so many people were killed a few minutes later. 'The door was closed and a man standing on the outside refused to open it so that I could pass out. Whether he was an employe of the theater or not, low me to pass out peacefully I detersorts of noise. I went along the balcony about ten feet to a glass partition and smashed it with the point of my umbrella; I went out and down the the one thing that seems to overpow-

Heard the Roar of the Crowd.

"When I was about half way down I heard the roar of the crowd as it came after me and I hurried with all the speed I had. They overtook me, however, knocked me down, and but for the fact that I was close to the door, I think my chance of life would have been almost nothing. As it was, I think I must have walked the last ten feet of my passage to the exit on the bodies of those who had fallen."

The best evidence obtainable is to the effect that the fire was caused by the sparks from an arc light striking the edge of the drop curtain, but the actual fact, however, will not be known until after the conclusion of the coroner's inquest. There are so many statements at present and they differ so widely that it is impossible to ascertain the exact truth of the matter.

OFFERS OF AID.

All Day Telegrams of Sympathy Were Received.

All during the day telegrams of sympathy to the people of Chicago and offers of aid poured in by telegraph upon the mayor. He announced Thursday night:

"I have received many offers of aid. It may be that before we get through this a few persons will be found to have been put to need, but Chicago will be able to give that aid herself. Most of those killed and injured now identified can be subsequently cared for."

Among the telegrams of condolence received from abroad by the mayor were the following:

"Berlin-Mayor Harrison: Wish to express deepest sympathy on account of terrible catastrophe at Iroquois theater. Please let me know of missing, and if some of my acquaintances are among them. What a terrible beginning of New Year many good citizens of Chicago will have. Henry of Prus-sued during the afternoon suggesting that the usual New Year's festivities be abandoned, Mayor Harrison Thursday night made the announcement that all departments of the city hall will be closed on Saturday, January 2 on account of the calamity at the Iroquois theater. He made the request that all business houses throughout the city also close on that day.

On every train which arrived in Chi cago came the relatives of persons who were thought to have been killed or injured in the fire. The lobbies of the down-town hotels were the scenes of many happy meetings as well as anxious inquiries on the part of the fathers, mothers and more distant relatives of people of whom no trace could be found. Many of these people returned to the hotels late in the evening after either a fruitless search for their loved ones, or after finding a charred and disfigured body lying in the morgue all that remained of the relative or friend for whom they had

SEEKING DEAD AND INJURED.

Undertaking Rooms and Hospitals Be sieged All Day.

From early in the morning until late at night crowds besieged the undertaking rooms and hospitals looking for the dead and injured. Policemen were detailed at all places where the dead and injured had been carried, to restrain the anxious men and women who pressed in at the doorways and inquired for their lost friends and rel

In all the undertaking rooms the bodies were placed as far as possible upon cots, and when these were exhausted stretched in long lines upon the floors, and a constant succession of pale-faced men and tearful women passed slowly between the bodies, lifting the coverings from the charred and bruised faces, and searching in the clothing of the dead for something by which their lost ones could be recognized. In many instances women fainted when lifting the sheet from some face in which they recognized the features of a dead child or a beautiful young girl.

Many Pathetic Scenes.

scenes that were enacted around the bodies of the little chilthis time, but when he refused to all been and what they were caused men and women alike to turn away weep-There has been no sadder feature coning of so many little children. It is er all visitors to the morgue beyond anything else. While the crowds of anxious seekers for news besieged the different morgues, the telegraph and long-distance telephone offices were almost swamped with the flood of inquiring messages. It is probable that nearly every person in Chicago with relatives living in other parts of the country received one or more messages during the day asking if they were safe. Messenger boys from the telegraph offices of the Postal and Western Union, were carrying great bundles of messages and Thursday night the terrific rush of business was still on.

VALUABLES AND TRINKETS.

Six Bushel Baskets Were Gathered By the Police and Firemen.

Six bushel baskets of valuables and trinkets of various descriptions were gathered by the police and firemen and turned over to the coroner. Among these were fully a dozen watches, and in every case the watch had stopped at 3:50 o'clock, the time when the fire broke out.

Postmaster F. A. Freer, of Galesburg, Ill., arrived early in the morning in response to a telegram received from friends here saying that his wife and daughter were among the missing. Mrs. Freer and Miss Freer came to Chicago Wednesday morning expressly to attend the play at the Iroquois theater.. Since their arrival in the city Mr. Freer has had no news of them.

Thursday he made inquiries of the police and spent the entire day examining bodies in the morgues. Many of the corpses bore a resemblance to his wife and daughter, and many more were clothed in dresses similar to those for which he was looking, but after investigating every clew and examining every body in every morgue, he returned to his hotel Thursday night heart-broken and in despair of finding his family.

Her Two Children Perished.

Mrs. B. L. Stoddard of Minonk, Ill. lay all morning at the Auditorium Annex in a semi-conscious condition, grieving over the loss of her daughter Zudel, and Donald, her b-year-old son. Mrs. Stoddard purchased tickets for herself, daughter and son, for the matinee, but later became indisposed and In addition to his proclamation is did not attend the performance. Her son and daughter went and both were burned to death.

As soon as Mrs. Stoddard learned of the fire she declared that her children would be burned to death. She spent hours in a fruitless search for their bodies and would probably not have returned to their hotel had she not been compelled by friends. But a short time after her return to the Auditorium the bodies of the boy and girl were identified in one of the morgues. Mrs. Stoddard returned to Minonk late Thursday afternoon, taking the bodies of her children with her.

TO EXAMINE OTHER THEATERS.

Architects Want Them Closed For Certain Period.

From the action of a committee of prominent architects of Chicago, at a meeting Thursday night, may result a recommendation to Mayor Harrison to close every theater in the city until its exits and construction have been examined. This idea was suggested to President Beaumont, of the Chicago Architects' association, Thursday by W. A. Pridemore, an architect, who lost some relatives in the fire. President Beaumont refused to personally make the recommendation to Mayor Harrison, but called an informal meeting of the association, at which it was decided that a larger gathering of the members would be held Friday and action at that time would be decided Mayor Harrison said Thursday night: "I see no more reason for closing all the theaters than for stopping all railway trains after a disastrous wreck. There is no necessity of getting hysterical about this matter, although this horrible disaster has taken place in probably the safest theater in Chicago."

The mayor Thursday sent a letter to all the theatrical managers in the city calling attention to the failure of state police, issued orders for his inall the theaters to comply fully with the terms of the building ordinances relative to to places of amusement.

Twelve employes of the Iroquois the ater were arrested Thursday night on orders issued by Chief of Police O'Neill. The charge against them is at present that of being accessory to manslaughter. They will be held pending the verdict of the coroner's dren were pathos itself. There were jury. Five of the arrested men are I do not know, but he had evidently so many of them and they had evident. stage hands and scene shifters. After determined that no one should leave ly been such beautiful children, and being taken in custody by the police, words in fact only gave utterance to the theater and in so doing started a were so handsomely dressed, that the four of them told Chief O'Neill that panic. I was leaving quietly up to comparison between what they had they had been requested by people connected with the theater to leave the to do this they at first refused to say, but later admitted that the advice was nected with the disaster than the kill- given by Assistant Stage Manager Plunkitt.

THE THEATER INSPECTED.

A Committee of the City Council Visited the Scene.

Twelve members of the city council Thursday inspected the theater and after doing so returned to the city hall and called on the building department. They asked to see the plans of the theater and Mr. Stanhope produced them. "How about sprinklers?" demanded Alderman Jones, who was one of the investigating committee.

"The way the theater is built, they can be left out," Mr. Stanhope replied. 'And anyhow the flames spread so rapidly that no sprinkling system would have availed anything."

Alderman Jones then remarked that the ordinance requires all exits to be "That will be looked into," Mr. Stanhope said. "Remember, however, that the lights were out and that many of the people were killed in their seats." Pointing to the diagram of the theater, Alderman Herman said:

"Here is a passageway on the south side of the first balcony which looks as though it led to a stairway. But in the darkness the people scrambling through it were caught like rats in a trap. They could not get either way. The confusion of exits was such that no one could find his way in the dark. If those things are considered exits, I don't know what constitutes an exit that would be of any use"

Not Enough of Exits Open. Mr. Stanhope told the aldermen that he had made an inspection of the building and that structurally it was good.

"You can not convince me," declared Alderman Herman, "if you talk for a hundred years, that people could get out of that place. I do not care what they call the exits, they did not work, there were not enough of them open These plans show aisles at the end of the first floor, but we were over there and saw the seats run bang up against the railing, leaving no aisle at all. Now what I want to know is, did these people in building this theater live up to the plans they submitted to the city building department? Here there seemed to be ample exits on paper. but a number of friends of mine got badly scorched just the same."

"On the first floor they got out," said Mr. Stanhope.

"My friends were on the first floor, but they got burned on their backs just the same," Alderman Herman rejoined.

Alderman Friestadt declared that in the second balcony there is not sufficient room when the seats are down, to allow any one to walk between them. Alderman Scully and Alderman Conery took from the floor of the stage bits of the stage curtain, none of which was larger than the palm of a hand, for examination to the store of an asbestos company. The bits were shown to be of asbestos, although the examiner pronounced it of a low grade.

"They wanted a cheap curtain and they got it," an incautious clerk remarked. He was instantly hushed up by one of the members of the company, who added that they did not wish to discuss the matter, inasmuch as they had bid upon supplying the curtain to the theater and their bid had been rejected for a lower one.

WEDDED HER PUPIL.

A Recent Marriage in This City Causes a Social Sensation in Glendale, Cincinnati.

[Enquirer]

All Glendale was taken by surprise when it was first rumored, and then gradually confirmed, that Mr. James Taylor and Miss Marian Dessa Spooner, of Glendale, had been recently married in Maysville, Ky.

The reason for the surprise lies in the fact that Miss Spooner had been the teacher and Mr. Taylor had been her pupil. Mr. Taylor was then a student at an Eastern school and was home on vacation.

Miss Spooner is a daughter of the late Judge Thomas Spooner, and was educated at Glendale College and at Oxford. She graduated at the latter college with distinction, and since then has attended summer school at Cornell. She was the teacher of science in the Glendale Public School, and also evinced unusual talent in adapting from the works of Dickens and Miss Alcott scenes, which, under her management, her younger pupils presented with great success. In fact, the entire family has been noted for ability of a high order. Judge Spooner was well known as an author as well as lawyer, and a collector of books of great value.

Mr. Taylor's family have not resided many years in Glendale, but they occupy one of the finest homes there, and all the members of the family are great favorites in society. Not only was Miss Spooner the teacher of Mr. Taylor in the public Many persons noticed their frequent wanderings last summer to the clay banks and other points of romantic interest about Glendale, but as Miss Spooner was devoted to botany every one naturally supposed that she and her pupil were pursuing that study. It seems, however, that the mischievous little god became the teacher of both, and that during the stay of the young man at his Eastern school the two have been corresponding by postoffice near Glendale. It was the intention to keep their marriage a secret, because after their trip to Maysville, Ky., where they were united in marriage, both returned to Glendale, and the youthful groom remarked that he was going to return to his studies.

It's not so much that the bride is several years older than the groom that his family would have objected to the match, but that the groom is so very young, as he has hardly attained his majority. However, since the families of both parties are so highly respected and sincerely liked it is hoped that all parties interested may become reconciled.

SANTA CLAUS' DREAM OF

DAN COHEN:

Old Santa Clause pondered and scratched his head; "What good thing can I do for Maysville?" he said. "The people there are good and they're true; They deserve something fine and something new." So he thought and planned with emotion deep, Till at last, so weary, he fell asleep. The wind howled and whistled and fast fell the snow; The people of Maysville appeared in a row, Marching two by two, rich and poor, young and old, With feet bare and freezing and bleeding with cold. To the sole of a foot there was never a shoe; They begged Santa Claus' pity for even a few. His eyes filled with tears, he awoke with a start, And wondered what angel had entered his heart.

He sprang to his feet, danced and shouted with glee "I'll send Dan Cohen to Maysville," quoth he. "A gift better far than a Christmas tree-A blessing perpetual he surely will be; Oh, better, much better, than gay Christmas tree! He shall furnish them shoes so good and so cheap That careworn mothers will cease to weep Over barefooted girls and barefooted boys. He shall offer them something far better than toys-Shoes for the young and shoes for the old, For shy little girls and big brothers bold, For little and big and all the 'betweens,' By the hand of his Manager, W. H. MEANS."
